

martin cizmar
martin@rocktownmail.com

Line of the week

"NASCAR is branching out. According to ESPN the magazine, NASCAR is coming out with their own line of meats. The meat will actually still have the tire treads right on it." — Jay Leno

Rave

For me, Saturday was a day to witness budding excellence. First LeBron James had a triple-double against the hapless Washington Wizards in his first playoff game. Then, Shapiro blew me away by taking their show to a whole new level at their EMU concert. Make sure you see Shapiro, folks, or you're going to be embarrassed about it later.